

Audiotrieve's InBoxer Anti-Spam Filter Wins Top Award From U.K.'s Leading Computer Magazine

Award from ComputerActive Gives InBoxer Its Fourth Consecutive Top Honor from Major UK Publications

BOXBOROUGH, Mass.--(BUSINESS WIRE)—February 19, 2004 – ComputerActive, the UK's best-selling computer magazine, today awarded its "Best of Test" Award to the InBoxer™ spam filter from Audiotrieve™, LLC, in an extensive group test. Since December 2003, InBoxer has received top awards and accolades from Personal Computer World, PC Advisor, PC Pro, and now, ComputerActive.

"In our tests, one product really stood out above the rest and is a must-have for users of Outlook," reported ComputerActive in the issue dated 3 March, 2004. "Because it's simple to install, made very few mistakes and learns from the emails you mark as spam or otherwise. Audiotrieve's InBoxer gets our Best on Test award. It's a great application with no complicated rules and doesn't require you to change the settings of your email application to use it."

InBoxer removed 99 percent of all spam, according to the tests, and beat Cloudmark's Spamnet, FireTrust's Mailwasher Pro, McAfee's SpamKiller 2004, Stata Labs SProxyPro and Symantec's Norton AntiSpam. InBoxer was the only product to receive four stars.

InBoxer requires Microsoft Windows and Microsoft Outlook. A 21 day free trial is available from <http://www.inboxer.co.uk> and <http://www.inboxer.com>. The product has a list price of $24.95.

About Audiotrieve and InBoxer

Audiotrieve, LLC (www.audiotrieve.com) creates products and services that sort, index and retrieve information that cannot be found easily using traditional means. InBoxer (www.inboxer.com), separates the email users want from the email they don't. Planned offerings include services that help search engines, such as Yahoo! or Google, and multimedia companies to find the right content from within an audio or video stream. INBOXER is a trademark and AUDIOTRIEVE is a service mark of Audiotrieve, LLC. All other marks are property of their respective owners.

Contacts

For Audiotrieve
Melissa Beck, 206-547-1089
mbeck@inboxer.com or Audiotrieve, 617-499-7700